

PFAS Settlements CWVA Meeting

In response to several inquiries received from member water utilities, CWVA is holding a brief meeting on Monday, November 6, 2:00 p.m. via Zoom to discuss issues relating to the proposed settlements in the PFAS product liability class action lawsuits against Dupont and 3M.

Please note that CWVA will not have legal counsel available to advise member water utilities with respect to the settlement provisions. Rather, the meeting will be an opportunity for water utilities to discuss how they are approaching the issue of whether to opt out of the settlements, including a discussion of the indemnification provisions.

The Attorney General's Office has suggested that water utilities visit www.pfaswatersettlement.com to determine whether they are eligible to receive financial compensation under the settlements. The compensation will be distributed according to a two-factor formula: 1) how much PFAS is in the water system and 2) how much water the utility treats.

Attorneys representing public water systems in this litigation released tables with the estimated range of financial recovery public water systems might expect as part of the proposed $13.6 billion settlements.
